

EVELYN SHOGOLE

Ms Shogole is in possession of postgraduate BSc degree in Environmental and Resource Studies. Her area of specialization is Environmental Management, Impact Studies, and Geographic Information Systems applications which includes spatial science. She is a registered as GISc Technician with South African Geomatic Council (SAGC) and Spatial Scientist with South African Council for Natural Scientific Professions (SACNASP). She has 12 years' experience inclusive of both environmental and geographical science.

Ms Shogole joined Aviation industry in June 2018 as a GISc Technician at the South African Civil Aviation Authority (SACAA) which on her second year, she was appointed as a Secondment in Aviation Environmental Compliance where she is responsible for all Aviation Environmental Protection related duties including CORSIA.

She has extensive experience in environmental impact reports, environmental management plans, environmental compliance and monitoring reports, developing GIS models for different projects, spatial analysis, suitability analysis, database management and GIS mapping in developments, operations, and post operations in several industries (i.e. Engineering/Construction, Water Sector, Mining, Government etc.). In addition, this encompasses environmental project management experience in the broader developments across the country.